- A: Professor Cooksy an amazing professor and one of the best professor I have had at SDSU. He is not only incredibly knowledgeable in the subject, but knows how to teach it well.
- A: Dr. Cooksy is a great professor, and easy to approach with questions. He was very responsive via email, during office hours, and during review sessions. He always made sure to answer each question as thorough as possible. The only suggestions I would have for this course is that the exams should correlate/reflect the material taught more.

Furthermore, it would be helpful if the homework and practice problems also correlated to the material being tested.

- A: Instructor was great. But this subject is too difficult... He did a great job teaching, it is just such a hard topic to grasp and understand.
- A: Dr. Cooksy makes an extremely hard and scary subject fun and interesting.
- A: Amazing professor, and incredibly intelligent.
- A: By far the best chemistry instructor I have had at SDSU. Even though he has been tasked with teaching a subject that is generally very difficult to comprehend, he has made my academic experience both enjoyable and enlightening. This teacher is extremely approachable, knowledgeable, and willing to help his students in any way he can. The time he has devoted to teaching this class both this and last semester has certainly not gone unappreciated by his students.
- A: Dr. Cooksy is my favorite professor at SDSU in the department of chemistry. He is always more than willing to help and takes the time to make students feel encouraged and appreciated. He learns everyone's name and is always extremely friendly and keeps in mind that physical chemistry is an extremely difficult subject. He offers plenty of help outside of the allotted class time, and plenty of practice problems. His grading is very fair and he has no problem answering any question regardless of how "dumb" it may seem. Keep it up Dr. Cooksy!
- A: Dr. Cooksy is the man! He's so nice, patient, and helpful during office hours... he's just AMAZING!! He also presents things in such a clear and concise manner (I wish this meant that I really understood what he was talking about). What a hard class. Nevertheless, it was always a pleasure to go to class and try to learn really interesting stuff. Dr. Cooksy is awesome, I just hope I pass.
- A: Dr. Cooksy is clearly knowledgeable on the subject he teaches. His passion for science is clear, making his class very enjoyable to students. He makes himself available to students for additional questions and help, something my peers and I definitely appreciated!
- A: Dr. Cooksy, you are an amazing professor. I wish I had more interest in this area of chemistry, as I'm sure it would have enhanced my experience, and made a difference in my grade being a C rather than a B. This is by far the most difficult class I've ever taken. Thank you for the last 2 semesters!
- A: He is always friendly and easy to communicate with. Willing to answer questions with patience. He keeps the lectures goals clear, informative, engaging and entertaining.
- A: Great professor, though topic. Very punctual, very helpful.
- A: As always Cooksy did an excellent job teaching. I feel that I learned an enormous amount. The depth of which Cooksy knows the information can be seen when teaching as he starts with the foundation of the material which makes it possible to understand the complex aspects. Also the subtle humor helps keeps the difficult class manageable. The review sessions held once a week outside of class were also great it was extremely helpful to see problems worked out with the logic explained behind each step, this helped me understand the material ten fold. Thank you for being such a great teacher and loving what you do it really shows!!! Also thank you for the goodies during the final it always puts a smile on my face during a stressful time!!
- A: Professor Cooksy has knowledge of chemistry that goes far beyond the classroom. He shares his knowledge in his textbook and what he writes on the board. He responds to e-mail in a timely manner and offers a lot of help by hosting review sessions and answering questions. He also has a proficient knowledge in technology by showing how to project images from an overhead projector to instructing students on how to use certain programs in lab.

A: One of the most best teachers I've had. He makes himself available for the people like me who struggled with the material! His exams were extremely difficult but his teaching and friendliness should serve as example to all professors!

A: Phenomenal Instructor.
